French Generals Grab Algiers' Rule

Public Shows Mild Interest In Primaries

With the Salem municipal primary May 2 barely more than a week away, marked apathy regarding the election is being evinced by potential voters.

The Democrats have five contests and the Republicans, four.

Also on the ballot, and eliciting some interest, is a four-mill, one-year school levy renewal.

The money yielded by the levy, if endorsed by the voters, will be used primarily to pay off a $69,000 deficit and provide an increase next year of $300 in teachers' salaries.

Highlighting the GOP contests is the mayoralty race between Oscar L. McCammon and Henry L. Reese. Reese, an attorney for 22 years and onetime city solicitor who filed as a surprise candidate just prior to the deadline Feb. 1.

Reese served five terms as city solicitor, under both Democratic and GOP administrations.

McCammon, a service department employe for many years, also worked under administrations of both parties. He was street foreman during Democratic Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's term from 1954 to 1957 and under GOP Mayor Harold D. Smith, 1957 to 1959.

The winner of the GOP race will be pitted against Mayor Cranmer in the November general election.

Mayor Cranmer, who is serving his third term in office, is unopposed in the primaries.

Council Contests
Other contests in the Republican primary are in Council's Second and Fourth Wards and for councilmen-at-large.

In the Second Ward, incumbent Donald C. Cannon is running against Russell C. Gibbs Jr.

R. K. Zimmerman is seeking renomination over George L. Conrad in the Fourth Ward.

Five candidates are vying for nomination in the council-at-large contest, with three to be selected. Seeking renomination are Arthur L. Hanna and Carl C. Abe. Also in the race are Richard L. Coburn, John E. Rance and Edelgard Zerbs Frye.

Rudolph M. Linder, a former councilman and clerk of Council for a number of years, is unopposed for nomination to the First Ward post. The Republicans have no candidate for the Third Ward following the withdrawal in February of Nellie Jackson who decided against running after she was advised she could not continue to work on a precinct staff if her name appeared on a ballot as a candidate.

A GOP city solicitor race also was averted with the withdrawal of incumbent Scott McCorkhill who retired from the contest in February because of the increased press of his law business following the death of his father, Atty. Charles G. McCorkhill. Atty. Thomas A. Coe is the only candidate for the solicitor's post.

Michael Schuller, Council president, and James H. Criswell, city treasurer, also are without opponents in the primary.

Democratic Ward Contests
The Democrats have contests in the First, Third and Fourth Wards, for council-at-large and for treasurer.

Albert Lesch, incumbent, is opposed by James H. Kleinman in the First Ward.

City-Wide Cleanup To Start Monday

Mayor Dean Cranmer reminded residents again today that Salem's cleanup campaign will be conducted Monday through Thursday of next week.

City crews and trucks will aid in the cleanup effort by providing free pickup of tin cans and trash, excluding garbage, during the four-day period.

A section of the city will receive trash pickups on each of the four days. The schedule for pickups, with sections of the city originating at the intersection of Ellsworth Ave. and W. State St., is as follows: Monday-southeast, Tuesday-northeast, Wednesday-southwest, and Thursday-northwest.

Residents are asked to place along curbing for pickup on the designated days.

Home of Warren Councilman Rent By Bomb Blast

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A bomb explosion early today damaged the front porch and house of Warren councilman-at-large Raymond J. Little.

Little, his wife, three children and a guest were asleep in the dwelling in the northeast section of the city, but were not hurt.

The blast was the city's third in less than two months and the 71st unexplained bombing in Mahoning Valley in the last 9½ years.

Little, a Democrat, could give no reason for the bombing. Police had no immediate explanation or theory for the blast. Det. Capt. Vern Peeble said the blast was the equivalent of one stick of dynamite.

The bomb, planted near the front porch, splintered the lattice work, shattered front windows and damaged the porch roof and a station wagon parked in the driveway. No damage estimate was available.

Urged Not To Surrender

Cuban Rebels Told Assistance on Way

By The Associated Press
An anti-Castro radio broadcast from an island off Central America today told two rebel battalions apparently fighting on Cuban soil that help was on the way and urged them not to surrender.

The appeal from Swan Island was made a few hours after the Castro government put before Havana television cameras some prisoners captured after last weekend's invasion. One admitted their mission failed and said not many rebels had escaped. Others said propaganda from Swan Island and North America had misled them.

The Swan Island broadcast, minotored by The Associated Press in Miami, Fla., also repeated troop movement instructions it had sent out during the night.

It had told earlier of new small landings made in Cuba, but no other source confirmed this. Some rebel sources in Miami did say, however, that between 500 and 1,500 guerrillas were headed for

District Woman Tied by Gunmen Dies of Shock

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The shock of a robbery Friday night in the suburban Boardman home of a prominent Youngstown businessman was blamed for the death of his 84-year-old mother-in-law.

Michael Grubiss returned to his fashionable home about 8:30 p.m. and found his 55-year-old wife and her dying mother tied to chairs and the home ransacked.

Police said two gunmen knocked on the front door of the home minutes after Grubiss had left at 7:30 to visit a funeral home in Struthers.

The intruders bound the women and asked the location of a safe. When told there was none, the men ransacked the house and took $200 from Mrs. Grubiss' purse, plus a diamond ring.

Police set up roadblocks in the area but they were to no avail.

Aides Sent by De Gaulle To Quell Revolt

PARIS (AP) — Four retired French generals seized power in Algiers today and attempted to force President Charles de Gaulle to abandon plans for negotiations with the Algerian rebels. De Gaulle reacted quickly, sending aides to Algeria to quash the coup.

The insurgent leaders were backed by tough paratroopers who brought down the French government in 1958 for the same reason — fear that Algeria might become independent from France.

Three years ago the unstable government of the Fourth French Republic proved a pushover. This time the right-wing rebels must contend with De Gaulle and his widespread support in France.

Reaction from Algerian rebel headquarters in Tunis also came quickly and introduced the factor of the Moslems' new confidence. Premier Rallies Followers Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas, leader of the 6½-year-old rebellion against France, called on his followers in Algeria to help break the insurrection.

"You must organize yourselves to confront the provocations of the paratroopers," he said, in a radio broadcast, recalling the incidents of last December when moslems poured into the streets to demonstrate their support for Algerian independence.

Sent from Paris by De Gaulle were Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe and Gen. Jean Olie. They were ordered by to take over civilian and military command from Jean Morin and Gen. Gernand Gambiez, who were being held by the military insurgents.

Communications Closed
It was not immediately clear how much of Algeria was under the control of the insurgents. Communications from Algiers to Paris opened briefly and then closed.

The insurgent leaders took over the government buildings of Algiers and in a broadcast over Algiers Radio claimed leadership over all of Algeria and the Sahara.

Although the rebels led by Gen. Maurice Challe, former French commander in chief in Algeria, claimed to control the whole territory this was disputed by the De Gaulle government in Paris. It said loyal soldiers were in control outside the City of Algiers.

Premier Michel Debre said the rising was "a premeditated and undisciplined act" by retired generals. He said they had seized the government buildings in Algiers but "in all the rest of the territory the situation is normal in every respect. The government is taking all necessary measures to insure that force rests with the law."

Along with Challe the rebel communique broadcast by Algiers Radio was also signed by Paratrooper Gen. Raoul Salan, who played a prominent role in the 1958 rising in Algeria that brought De Gaulle back to power.

Expected In Algeria
Salan recently has exiled himself in Spain. It was not believed that he had arrived on Algerian soil but he was expected momentarily.

The rebel communique said "The powers held by the civil authorities have entirely passed to military authorities."

French officers who have fought the Algerian nationalists in the 6-year rebellion "have been among the bitterest opponents of De Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria."

Other generals who joined the revolt were Air Force Gen. Ed-Henri Zeller.

After the communique, Algiers Radio said, "the individuals having participated directly in the attempt to abandon Algeria and the Sahara will be placed under arrest and brought before a military tribunal."

The radio declared a "state of seige" in Algeria but promised that all "fundamental liberties"

National Realtor Week April 23rd - 29th Make Your First Stop A Realtor.

when planning to buy a house

Home ownership makes good sense — both in terms of a financial investment and your family's future happiness and security.

To make sure you buy the right house for you, make the first stop on your house-hunting tour a Realtor.® He knows local conditions and prices and homes that are available. And he's pledged to use his knowledge and experience on your behalf, carrying you from your first visit to a house through settlement.

Not every real estate agent is a Realtor.® Only a Realtor® can display this seal, the emblem of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. This means he has passed the rigid requirements of the Association and his local real estate board.

And it means that integrity is the keystone of his business.

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

When Is a Man Really Through?

One of America's most popular preachers is an institution in himself. There is never an empty seat at his services, come rain or shine. People come in busloads from distant places. He has a homey, friendly style and it's no wonder people love him.

Dr. Peale

He has never allowed himself to get dragged into issues, like some people I know, he has stuck to preaching the gospel and loving and helping people. The huge church he heads at the heart of his city is largely of his making; so I was astonished recently when he said, "They're going to retire me this year. I'll be 72 in June."

"But you are the picture of health, have a mind popping with ideas, and prodigious energy. Who can be so stupid as to retire you? One thing is sure, if they retire you, they will 'retire' that church."

"Well, there is a mechanism in the retirement system of my denomination that could let me remain on the job if the powers that be will exercise it."

I SURE HOPE THAT 'ecclesiastical authority' will see the immense value in maintaining this great man at the heart of the vast metropolis where he is beloved by people of all faiths—as well as those of no faith.

It is a positive shame how suddenly, because of arbitrary age rules, men at the height of their powers and doing terrific jobs are cut off, dropped out, cast aside. Then what often happens? The retirement dinner is over, the wrist watch presented the citation read, the pension activated.

The poor fellow fishes for a while but soon tires of that; he golfs until he is fed up. He moons around the house. The sense of imposed uselessness grows on him and finally he just goes to seed; presently you pick up the paper one day and there is his obituary.

What did he die of? Well, if the truth were told, death was due to boredom, ennui and a sense of uselessness. The personality can hardly survive such a traumatic experience, the deep wound of not being needed, of being useless, when all the time that individual has useful potential.

OF COURSE, it is true that some men age faster than others and should indeed be retired at 65. In fact, some might well have been retired at 40—at which age they stopped growing mentally. They were through almost before they started, like a school teacher I heard of: At a boys school a new headmaster was chosen from among members of the faculty. After the appointment was announced, a teacher approached the chairman of the selection committee with a gnawing question.

I accept the fact that I wasn't picked for the headmastership," he said forthrightly, "but can you tell me why I wasn't at least considered for the post? It seems curious. After all, I've had 20 years' teaching experience here."

"That's not quite the way we looked at it," came the reply. "In your case, the board felt that what you've had is one year's experience repeated 20 times."

BUT WHEN A MAN is still growing, still healthy and still effective there certainly ought to be sufficient flexibility in retirement systems to keep him on. To retire every man simply because he reaches a chronological point is positively stupid and causes us to be deprived unnecessarily of some of our most competent people, men who are greatly needed. A system of standards could be added to retirement policies and men who can clearly meet them should be continued in the vital contribution they are making.

Moreover, something should be done to conserve the usefulness of men who are retiring each year. I have been thinking of trying to organize a Re-adjustment and Re-activation Club that would seek to place competent retired men in various service activities. They could work as much or as little as they might wish; but scope would be given for their active minds and vast experience and abilities to be utilized in important ways.

MY FRIEND Whit Smith is a shining example: Whit was formerly vice-president of the Railway Express and had some 30,000 people under his direction. When retirement time came he was still going strong so he looked around for some challenging activity.

He made careful study of several organizations and finally accepted an unsalaried job as vice president and business manager of the American Foundation for Religion and Psychiatry, an interfaith, scientific, counseling service.

Is Whit Smith retired? Hardly. He works from nine to four, five days a week, directs a staff of 65, and raises a budget of upwards of half a million dollars a year. He has made a wonderful contribution in strengthening the organization in all ways, and he says he is having even more fun and satisfaction than in his "first" career.

America is missing a trick in not doing a better job in using the talents and energies of her older men.

IT'S FOR YOU

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When someone says, "It's for you," our minds begin to buzz with questions. Who is it? What do they want? Good News? Bad News? Work? Pleasure?

It's for you! Commanding words that summon our immediate attention. And those words apply as well to the Church as they do to a telephone call.

The Church is for you! Its services of worship, its program of religious education, its comforting ministration in time of spiritual crisis ... all for you!

And the Church has a vital message—good news for a discouraged world. It has a glorious work before it—a happy fellowship for men, women, and children of noble purpose.

The Church deserves your support. It's for you!

The President Addresses Moscow

A careful reading of President Kennedy's foreign policy speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors reveals why many experts are saying it may herald a turning point in U.S.-Soviet Relations.

It contained a series of significant statements, each of them important in itself and all of them related to the others. They added up to a major appraisal of just what the world situation is.

In the face of disappointment at the failure of the first anti-Castro invasion of Cuba to dislodge the bearded dictator, the President made it clear that the United States does not believe the Cuban people have had their final say in the matter.

RELATING EVENTS in Cuba to regional conditions, President Kennedy re-emphasized that, like former President Eisenhower, he still considers the Monroe Doctrine to be the overriding policy on outside interference in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere.

While he hopes other Latin American nations agree with that doctrine in deeds as well as words, Washington's implementation of the doctrine by no means depends upon their performance. With or without their help, United States security will govern United States actions.

Relating hemispheric conditions to world community, Mr. Kennedy declared that he is fully aware that events in Cuba or Laos are not isolated situations, but part of a continuing Communist warfare that includes subversion, infiltration and chaos—a war far more difficult to fight than the clash of armies and nuclear weapons.

Having thus tied local, regional and world threats together, the President paved the way for a far tougher line toward Moscow than he publicly has done before.

"We do not intend to be lectured on 'intervention' by those whose character was stamped for all time on the bloody streets of Budapest," he declared.

If the United States intervenes in Cuba, he said, this country will not "except or accept" the same outcome suffered by the small bands of invaders in the last few days.

HE PROMISED to re-examine and reorient our forces, our tactics and our institutions in order to influence the outcome of struggle that involves more than the fate of Laos or Cuba—a struggle that involves the survival of the free world.

It is interesting to relate the President's speech to the reaction from Moscow, whose mouthpiece radio said the "brink of war" policy was hazardous but it was "even more dangerous to pass the brink right into a world catastrophe."

President Kennedy's fundamental message may have been to serve notice on Moscow that the United States does not alone share the responsibility for creating brink-of-war situations which may lead to world catastrophe.

SUCH A CHARGE by the Russians is typical of Communist thinking—that if the United States does not sit idly by and let the great conspiracy take over Cuba or Laos, the United States is guilty of courting war.

We hope that by declaring the United States does not intend to sit idly by, the President was serving notice on Moscow that it should proceed cautiously, accepting its full share of the responsibility for courting war.

If that really is what he meant, Mr. Kennedy can count on the support of all the people for whom he speaks in foreign affairs.

DeGaulle Never Was Convinced

President Kennedy will have no more luck charming the president of France than any of the others who have tried it. And perhaps, that being the prospect, President Kennedy shouldn't try to be charming when he visits Charles de Gaulle.

President De Gaulle is plainly in a bad mood. He has been casting aspersions on Algerians, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the United Nations with impunity.

French means and men will not be available for U.N. projects in the Congo, he has let it be known. He thinks both NATO and the United Nations need to be drastically overhauled and reorganized. He has nothing good to say about them.

HE CHARGES that U.N. experience under the U.N. Charter has been a denial of the spirit of the Charter, which limited the scope of the General Assembly and put the main emphasis on the Security Council. Instead, the Security Council has been restricted and the General Assembly has been given limitless scope.

Gen. De Gaulle is so obviously lashing himself into a pique, to strengthen his bargaining position, that some of what he says can be discounted. But the balance must be given credence. Charles de Gaulle never has wasted his time running in popularity contests. He is one of the solid men of his era. When he talks, people listen.

The purpose of the North Atlantic Alliance and the United Nations was to strengthen the position of nations and to build on their strength a structure of international security. The irony of France's position has been that its gain in strength has been accompanied by independent thinking.

De Gaulle never was convinced that French security was tied to a policy of cooperation. Before De Gaulle, other French leaders, too, were skeptical of an arrangement that made France seem to rely on the United States and Great Britain, instead of being a co-equal member of an alliance.

For those Americans skeptical of some of the drifts in U.N. evolution, France's President De Gaulle is making as much sense as the organization's staunch defenders who claim everything it does is inspired and above criticism. It can stand criticism. If it couldn't stand criticism, especially from those who never were convinced of its merit in the first place, something would be wrong.

Much good comes from an open mind unless it's so open nothing stays in it.

When fishermen start telling tall tales it would help if they'd keep them short.

Clean-Up Time Again

It will take only a few warm days to get most of us outdoors and in the mood to tidy up the surroundings.

The recent rains notwithstanding, city service department workers will start out Monday to canvass the city for a lot of that junk you've let accumulate over the winter months. Residents are asked to place their discarded items in containers on the curb laws.

You can help make Salem an attractive place to live by following the prescribed "Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up" slogans this spring and summer, and the first step is to cooperate in next week's clean-up campaign.

Practical Politics

A course in practical politics designed to help business and professional men and women will be started next week by the Chamber of Commerce and already the needed enrollment of 15 persons is assured.

The Chamber is to be commended for instituting this program which is bound to prove beneficial to the participants as well as arousing more interest in municipal government. A second workshop is planned by the Chamber next Fall and it might not be too bad an idea to register your name early. A stimulating course in practical politics is a good thing for our community.

Once Over

Man-in-Space is a great accomplishment but what world needs is Space-in-Man. Space in his head for basic sense, right thinking and patience. Space in his heart for compassion. Space in his hands for plow handles instead of swords.

Space on his agenda for quiet, peaceful routines instead of ultimatums, emergency sessions and summit powwows.

Space in his ears for Sermon on the Mount, Ten Commandments and 23rd Psalm. Space in his memory for the struggles, fortitude and patience of his forefathers in face of trials unknown today. Space in man's home for the family altar.

Man needs space in his character for dedication, sacrifice and resolute purpose. He needs space in his eyes for a full picture of the problems of a troubled world, space in hands to hold a globe, a map a guide to human behavior and whatever Bible belongs to his faith.

He needs space for dreams of man through the centuries: for a world of honor, amity, consecration and understanding. He needs space in his working-day program for deep thinking, a sense of fair play and a realization there are two sides to every question.

Yes, the "Space-in-Man" is more important than the "Man-in-Space" by any standards. (If we are wrong it's the lack of space in our general analysis of matters

Scientific Progress

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Those Americans who have been familiar with the long history of Russian scientific study and experimentation see nothing alarming or even surprising in the successful launching of a man into space. And when properly understood, there is no occasion to popular hysteria. In fact, there was no reason to have been alarmed when the first Sputnik was launched.

In an interview two weeks ago in Chicago, Dr. T. Paul Torda not only predicted what has happened but explained some of the reasons why Russian science has shown such progress in recent years.

HE POINTED OUT that Russian scientific progress did not begin with the triumph of communism in 1917. Nor is this progress due entirely to communism as a philosophy and a form of government. Back at the turn of the century, Czarist Russia was experimenting with rockets.

In 1725, when the United States consisted of a handful of intrepid pioneers concerned with winning a home in the wilderness, the Russian Academy of Science was established.

In the early 1700s, Peter the Great eagerly brought to his bizarre court some of the best minds in Europe and made good use of their talents.

The Soviet has consistently projected heavy space vehicles into orbit. The largest has been seven tons. The one in which the recent spaceman orbited the earth weighed five tons. The heaviest orbited payload created in the United States weighed only one ton.

Dr. Torda has explained this difference. It is due to the choice by the Russians of solid-fuel propellants.

He says: "In solid fuel propellants there is a limit to what can be done in programing performance. You can build certain performance characteristics into solid fuels. But once the rocket is fired, it must do exactly as you have built it. You have no control over its propulsion performance.

"When liquid fuels are used, this is not so. By means of piping and valves, performance can be directed from the ground. American engineers can stop and start a liquid fuel rocket while it is in orbit. We have already done so.

"This has certain great advantages, especially when a man is in the vehicle. We can watch over him and control his flight and his re-entry into the atmosphere. Thus the United States is not so far behind after all."

When it is considered that the United States started so late in this field of science, the encouraging thing is that we are already only measurably behind in space exploration.

Kennedy Faring Well

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

President Kennedy and his top board of legislative strategy do not believe that the administration program is in peril on Capitol Hill. They dispute reports that the President's popularity outside Washington has no echo in the halls of Congress.

Their estimate is that before this Congress ends, the new administration will have a performance score in Congress of 80 per cent or better.

They have made studies of past performances on Capitol Hill to get a comparative reading of where they are today. These studies indicate that the Kennedy program has fared well in the 87th Congress and that despite the loss of 22 Northern Democratic seats in the 1960 congressional election, the voting has visibly tipped toward the Kennedy program.

A good part of the complaints being heard by Liberal Democrats in Congress today arises not so much from the allegedly poor prospect of the Kennedy program but from a concern that the program he sent to the hill is inadequate to start with.

THE LIBERALS, who supplied much of the motive power for the Kennedy presidential drive, are afraid that the President's economic-aid measures are far too few and far too thin to produce anything like seven million new jobs in the next year or so—the estimate of the National Planning Association to reduce unemployment to 4 per cent.

This is another story, however, and goes well beyond the question of the condition of the program that President Kennedy did send to Congress.

In 1953, at or about the comparable stage of President Eisenhower's first Congress, the Congress had enacted two of the President's requests and rejected one.

So far Mr. Kennedy has signed four bills five others have passed one House of Congress.

These statistics are certainly not decisive but to administration strategists they indicate a pace not altogether consonant with reports from the grassroots that the President is popular but nobody likes the Kennedy program.

Another statistic that gives heart to these strategists, and encourages in them to believe they are doing reasonably well, is the comparison between the vote last year and this year on various issues.

In 1960, for example, a minimum wage bill so severely diluted that it was opposed by the then Sen. Kennedy passed the House by a 56-vote margin. This year, the same bill squeezed through the House by only one vote.

THIS SWITCH is even more impressive when examined against the loss of 22 Northern Democratic seats to Republicans in the 1960 congressional election.

In other words, despite the loss of 22 seats, the Democratic leadership in the House gained 55 followers on this issue.

Another comparison shows that whereas 50 Democrats voted against the depressed areas bill last year, only 41 opposed a substantially similar measure this year. The Republican support also improved—from 17 who supported it in 1960 to 30 this year.

Hard conclusions cannot be drawn from these statistics, either, but they are important straws in the wind, as viewed by top administration strategists.

They help destroy the image of a packaged "Kennedy program," all in one piece, that voters are either "for" or "against."

The administration strategists doubt that most voters think of the "program" in that way. The individual voter, they think, is interested only in that part of the program that may affect his own personal life and at this point in the new administration probably hasn't heard much even about that.

Conservative Record

By RICHARD C. WALD

British Party Has Longest Continuous Reign

LONDON The Conservative party last Sunday set a modern record. It has been in office longer continuously than any other British party this century.

And in the past 100 years the only reign longer than the present one, which began on Oct. 25, 1951, was the 10½-year Conservative ascendancy from July, 1895 to December, 1905—a record that will probably be shattered since there is little likelihood that the present government will go to the country before 1963.

As if to celebrate and emphasize its successes, the party last week went into municipal elections throughout England and Wales and scored gains all along the line.

Of the 62 county councils at issue it captured 52, picking up two from labor and making inroads in the labor stronghold of London.

Unlike the Labor party, whose coffers are low and whose internal fights are severe, it is well-heeled, smoothly functioning and, to the world's eye at least, united.

But 10 years of power and a 102-vote margin in the House of Commons are beginning to show their side effects. The rebels within the party are getting bolder. The initiatives are getting fewer.

There is on the political scene a stupefying dullness that, if the opposition could find something to unite and fight about, could prove fatal.

When the Conservatives came to power in 1951 they were a different party from the pre-war Tories of Baldwin and Chamberlain.

Shattered by the great labor victory of 1945, they had regrouped their forces, deliberately cut adrift the old right-wing faction that had made the pre-war governments so hated by the working population, and become a modern party ready to accept and improve on the welfare state.

Winston Churchill, who had been a junior minister in the great liberal ascendancy half a century before, provided the motive power that kept a government with a majority of 18 pushing forward as hard as it could.

Still, he was an imperialist and he was not giving away the empire. He knew little about the economics of running a welfare state on the edge of disaster.

Anthony Eden, his successor for a brief, painful moment, never established a tone of government.

Rather, in the Suez venture, he destroyed a picture of Britannia invincible and called forth a political storm that cut through both major parties and left the country shaky.

His successor, Harold Macmillan, is the real architect of modern conservatism. As head of his party he has been more a consolidator than an innovator, a brilliant political manipulator who picked up the pieces after Suez, juggled a slim majority in Commons through the period when the government was under fiercest attack without ever quite being forced into an election.

He finally went to the country in 1959 just as the economic situation was at its brightest.

Of all the reasons for conservative success, the most potent is probably the economic. The party's slogan is "You've never had it so good. Don't let labor ruin it," the slogan has appeal.

The signs of a new affluence and a desire to keep it are all over the country. Union leaders complain that they can't keep their shop stewards in line because they are always pulling wildcat strikes to get a bit more in the pay packet than the rest of the factory.

Prosperity has killed solidarity. "I'm all right Jack," is so real it's a cliché.

Professional conservative politicians consciously court this attitude. Whitehall has made no consistent move on the question of joining the common market.

Prime Minister Macmillan's major international initiative was the drive toward the summit that failed.

Britain lags behind most of the industrialized nations of Europe in the rate of its growth and is perennially steering between the scylla of inflation and the charybdis of stagnation.

But none of this is translated into votes. The opposition that should channel protest into an assault on the government in fact spends most of its energies assaulting itself. On the pocketbook problems, where the Conservatives have firmly kept the issues' Labor is often unclear.

In fact, the issues seem to be developing inside the Conservative party. Each of the right wing segments has risen in protest at one point or another.

It has led some commentators to suggest that someday this island may have a one-party government with its own built-in opposition.

But what has so far failed to materialize is a consistent right-wing opposition.

Hitting the Jackpot

By TRUMAN TWILL

Elation ran through our household like an electric shock when a movie called "The Apartment" scored high in Hollywood's Oscar awards. This was a triumph for the Twills as well as for the show business pros who worked in and on the picture.

It was the only movie we saw last year. And before some of my friends who manage theaters write a nasty letter about my saying it in print, this is the explanation — and I wonder if it may not tell a good deal about the problem of the movies.

I once was the full-time movie reviewer for my newspaper. Rather, I reviewed movies after I had finished my other chores. The routine called for seeing eight movies a week. When they turned over the job to someone else, I vowed never to spend that much time again in a darkened room for any purpose but sleeping.

Gradually, I was weaned back to the pictures, then another thing happened. We moved to Rosy

Fingered Dawn. Meanwhile, millions of other people also had moved from the towns and cities where the nearest motion picture was playing around the corner to suburban areas and the open country where the nearest movie was a far piece removed, plus parking problems, unless it was a drive-in, and drive-in hours were not suitable for people who had moved to the country.

To whatever extent our problem was typical, it was what happened to movie attendance — that and television, which made it still easier to stay home once you got there.

Every so often, a picture is called to our attention so forcibly that we do the chores early, hitch up Dobbin to the shay and drive into town to see what them city fellers are up to. Last year, the only picture we saw was "The Apartment." Not knowing what we were doing, we picked the movie that was to knock off five Oscars and whose director, Billy Wilder, said should have brought half an Oscar apiece to its two stars, Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine.

It was as much of a thrill as reading a book that later becomes the most discussed book of the year, or picking an obscure actor for stardom. I did that once when I was reviewing movies — an engaging fellow called Clark Gable.

Motion pictures are infinitely better than they used to be, and it's nice to know that the movie queen I married had the sense to pry me out of my corner of the couch long enough to see "The Apartment." I can make it sound as if I was keeping on top of things if I can steer the conversation in that direction until I have the good luck to hit another jackpot.

for council-at-large, withdrew in February after ascertaining that he was ineligible because he voted a Republican ticket at the 1959 primary election. Law requires that four years must elapse in order for a candidate to switch parties.

In the remaining Democratic contest, Twila V. Myers is running against Lloyd Morrison for nomination as treasurer.

Unopposed are: Ford Joseph Jr., for president of Council; and Mary Bryan, a former councilwoman, Second Ward Council post. The Democrats have no candidate for city solicitor.

Plead For School Funds

The proposed four-mill school levy renewal, which was decreased one half-mill under the emergency four and one half-mill levy which will expire this year, has been described by school authorities as vital if the schools are to "maintain and improve the quality of the educational program to which Salem people have become accustomed."

School Superintendent Paul E. Smith declared at a recent school board meeting that school teachers must be granted salary increases in order to prevent the loss of instructors to other systems which pay better.

Stressing the importance school officials attach to passage of the levy, Smith said the maintenance program of the local system has been cut to the bone because of shortage of finances in order to keep the academic program on a high level.

Perry Township and Salem Township electors also will vote on the school levy.

Kennedy

White House news secretary Pierre Salinger disclosed Friday night that Kennedy and Eisenhower would meet at Camp David, the Catocin Mountain retreat near Gettysburg, Pa., which Eisenhower used for conferences with foreign leaders.

The President arranged the luncheon session in a telephone call to Eisenhower Friday morning. The former chief executive was at his Gettysburg farm.

Salinger said Kennedy wanted to bring Eisenhower up to date on the Cuban situation, believing that "as leader of the Republican party and as former president he should know what the situation is."

Salinger also disclosed that Kennedy had been in indirect contact with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, another Republican leader, and that he had conferred Friday with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The contacts with Republicans followed Kennedy's meeting at the White House Thursday with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon his Republican opponent for the presidency last year.

Nixon said in New York Friday night that he had told Kennedy he would support him "even to the commitment of American armed forces."

Deerfield Postoffice Construction Started

DEERFIELD — Ground has been broken here for Deerfield's new post office building.

The $25,000 structure will be built just north of Deerfield Circle by the Cleveland Cement Co., the general contractor. It is expected to be ready for dedication in August, according to Postmaster Ralph Walters.

Work also is under way here on the new First Methodist Church.

Taylor Appointed To Study U.S. Guerrilla Potential

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today appointed Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army chief of staff, to make a special survey of U.S. capabilities in the field of "nonconventional" warfare such as guerrilla activity.

Taylor immediately went on the job. He attended a meeting this morning of the National Security Council—one of the few sessions of that major defense group since Kennedy took office.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said that "nonconventional" warfare in this case is not used in the usual sense of nuclear warfare but of tactical operations.

Salinger said Kennedy decided within the last few days that such a survey is necessary and asked Taylor Friday to conduct it.

The study clearly was inspired by events of the past week in Cuba.

Pressed by newsmen for the purpose Kennedy had in mind in designating Taylor to conduct a study of a specialized phase of military operations, Salinger cited the last paragraph of Kennedy's speech two days ago before a group of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

In that Kennedy said: "Let me then make clear as your president that I am determined upon our system's survival and success, regardless of the cost and regardless of the peril."

Rebels

Cuba for a new invasion assault.

A dispatch from Havana described the Cuban capital as a city of fear and suspicion. It said a new wave of arrests and detentions reached into almost every family. Suspects jammed swollen jails and living conditions were described as growing worse.

The New York Times quoted a diplomatic source in Washington as saying Maj. Ernesto Guevara, one of Castro's top aides, was seriously wounded in the head earlier this week. The Times said the information reached Washington from a diplomatic source in Havana.

The diplomatic source said a neurosurgeon was sent to a provincial hospital where Guevara allegedly was taken. Guevara, 32, is Cuba's economic czar.

Directing Operations

The government radio network said Prime Minister Fidel Castro, unseen in public for almost a week, was personally directing mop-up operations in the interior against the surviving rebel invaders who are trying to overthrow his pro-Communist regime.

A Havana television station Friday night prepared the people for big "Castro Day" victory celebrations with a five-hour live interview of prisoners the government claims it captured during the abortive invasion by Cuban exiles.

One prisoner was Jose Miro Torres, son of the top Cuban rebel leader Jose Miro Cardona. Miro Torres bit his lip and rocked in his chair as he admitted that his force was defeated and his operation ended in failure.

Had Been Well Treated

The rebel leader's son said on Havana television that he had been well treated since his capture. All his comments were in the form of answers to his interrogators.

"Then it is not just to say that Cuban militiamen behave like human beasts?" Miro Torres was asked.

"Absolutely not," he replied before the cameras.

When asked by the panel of interviewers what he and his men expected to find when they landed, Miro Torres said:

"We thought the militia and the army would join us."

"That is what you were told. But what did you find?"

"They fought us very hard and defeated us."

"Then you were defeated?" Miro Torres was asked.

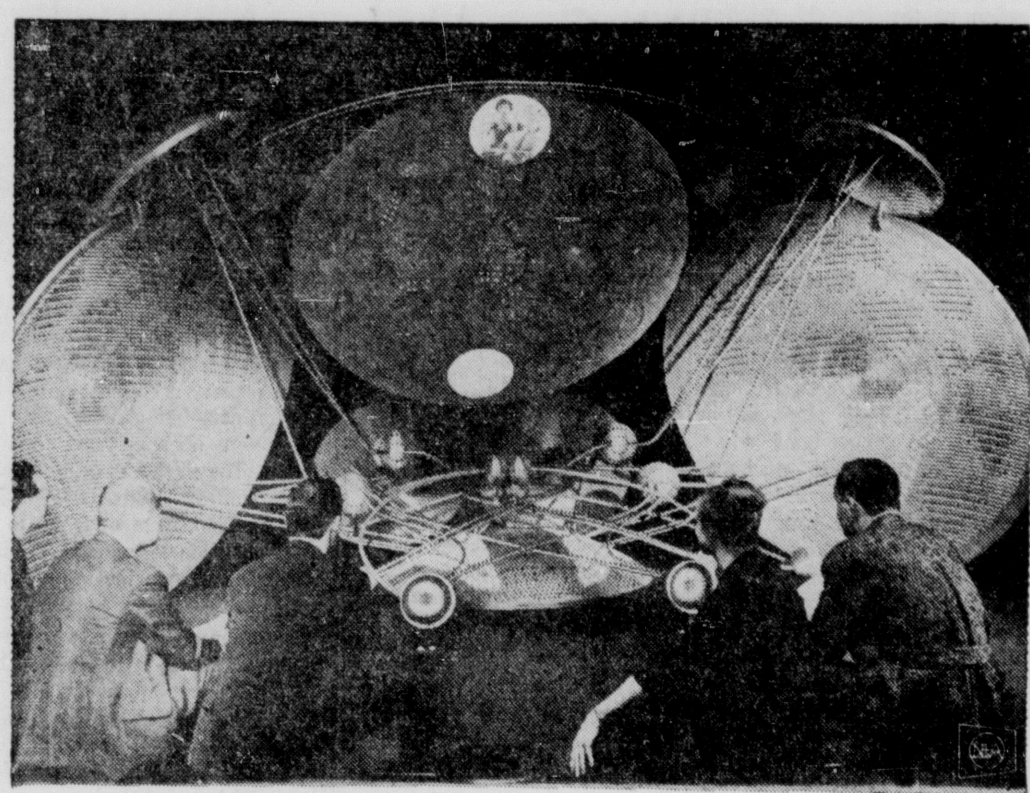

"Yes," he answered.

Miro Torres also responded "no" when asked if any appreciable number of invaders had escaped.

Jose Miro Cardona appealed from his New York headquarters to Pope John XXIII, asking the pontiff's intercession to halt firing squad executions of captured rebels. A Havana dispatch Friday said the number shot had reached 29 in three days.

Miro Cardona said in his cable to the Vatican that the Pope's voice, "exemplifying Christian charity, could save the lives of many idealistic men" by interceding through the International Red Cross. Miro Cardona also messaged the presidents of 11 Latin American nations, asking them to "act promptly" to prevent more executions.

President Kennedy was to meet today with former President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md., to discuss at lunch the recent events in Cuba. The two have not Demonstrations for and against Castro continued in the rest of the world. Some Asian editorial comment backed Washington.

The latest and biggest pro-Castro rally was in Mexico City, where police used clubs, tear gas and fire hoses to disperse a mob of 10,000. Injuries were reported as minor. Police moved in as the crowd was about to burn an American flag and a 10-foot effigy of Kennedy hanging from a lamp post.

Youth Draws Fines On Three Charges

John Bagley, 18, of 254 S. Howard Ave. was fined $45 and costs and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence after pleading guilty in Mayor Dean Crammer's court this morning to three separate charges stemming from a disturbance on E. State St. Friday night.

Bagley was fined $10 and costs for intoxication, 10 and costs for disorderly conduct and $25 and costs for resisting arrest. A 30-day jail sentence on the resisting arrest charge was suspended on condition of good behavior for one year.

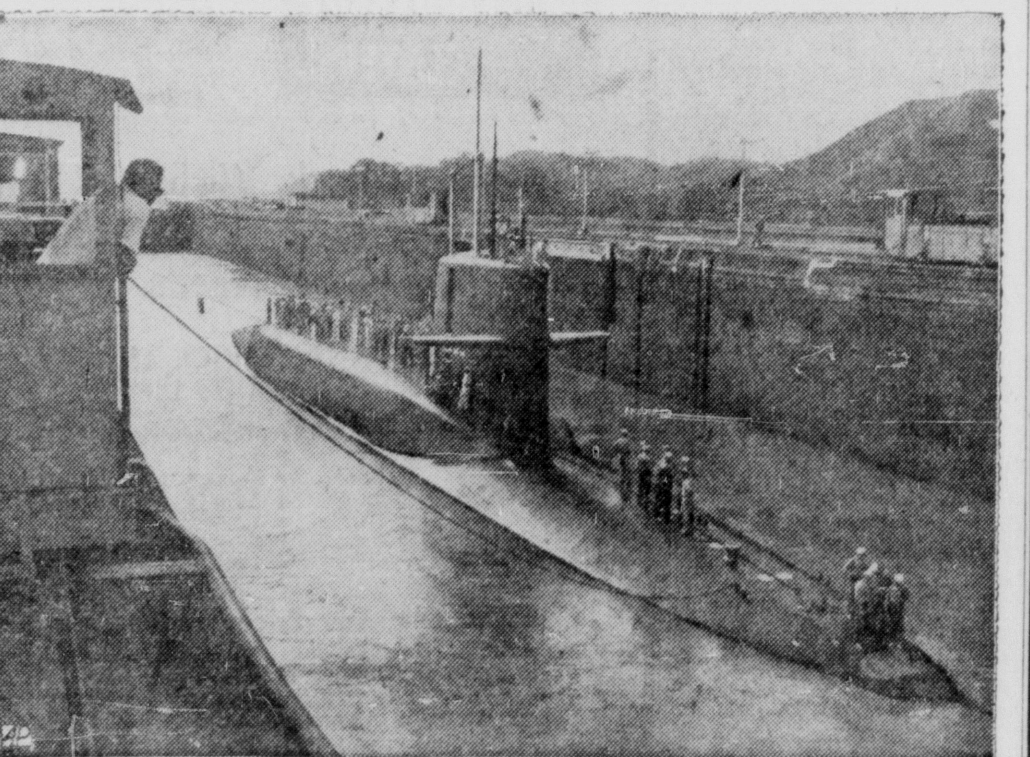

The disturbance took place in front of a restaurant on E. State St. Police said Bagley was attempting to keep a man and woman from getting into their car.

ASC To Accept Feed Program Applications

Clifford F. Shaw, chairman of the Columbiana County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces that the ASC office in Lisbon will be ready to accept applications for the feed grain program on Monday.

The corn base and payment rate per acre has been computed for individual farms where corn was planted in 1959 and 1960. Notices will be mailed to each of these farm operators not later than Monday. There are 1,750 farms in the county.

Farmers interested or intending to participate must have their applications filed not later than June 1, Shaw said.

Hoodlum Who Disarmed FBI Agent Sentenced

CLEVELAND (AP)—"You are a menace to society. I can not permit this man to walk the streets."

These words by U.S. District Court Judge James C. Connell fell on the ears of Frank Cypriya, 32, of Akron, who was sentenced Friday to eight years in the federal penitentiary.

Cypriya, who has run afoul of the law numerous times since he was 14, had pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting a federal officer with a deadly weapon. He disarmed a federal agent after being sought for questioning in the $135,000 holdup of the Boardman Branch of the Mahoning National Bank near Youngstown. Cypriya was arrested near Massillon Jan. 23 after he was wounded in the leg following an exchange of gunfire with police.

A report on the Christmas seal sale, read by Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive director, showed county residents contributed $29,562.

Of this amount $23,649 is for local use, and 20 per cent, or $5,912, goes to the state and national associations.

The East Liverpool area gave $8,055; Salem, $6,175; Lisbon, $2,087; East Palestine, $3,035, and Columbiana, $3,008.

Over 13,760 persons purchased the seals.

The yearly X-ray report showed 6,115 examinations were taken by the mobile unit.

The financial report for 1960 showed $25,460 was received from the sale of seals after expenses, $1,792 was refunded by the State association, $660 was received as interest on investments and $30 was donated for a total of $27,943.

Disbursements included: health education, $8,730; case finding, $8,163; statistics and fact finding, $133; administration, $3,521; co-operation $757; seal sale expenses $4,505 for a total of $25,812. A balance of $2,130 was reported at the start of 1961.

A total of 10,405 Heaf TB tests was given the past year in schools, factories and at street fairs.

Tuition was provided for four nurses and a physical education teacher to attend the summer health at Kent State University.

and guarantees assured by the constitution are entirely maintained."

The first reaction among Europeans in the city was one of elation. Cars streamed through the streets blasting their horns in the three-two cadence that means "Algerie, Francaise (Algeria is French)."

How many troops were involved in the sudden coup was unknown. Nor was it clear yet whether the army claim to control of all Algeria was true.

There was no violence in the pre-dawn military rising.

Challe is a tough, round-faced air force general who was once commander in chief of NATO's central European forces under U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad. He recently resigned from that post in protest against De Gaulle's policies in Algeria.

Challe's principle military support appeared to be the tough 1st Foreign Legion Paratroop Regiment of about 3,500 men. These were the men who took over the government buildings. Just how many more army units—of the 500,000 men in Algeria—were with Challe was not initially clear.

The uprising followed the same pattern as the 1958 uprising. De Gaulle was awakened early by news of the coup and immediately set in motion countermeasures. Police throughout France were placed on an alert and top officials were called to their desks before dawn.

There were conflicting claims from both Paris and Algiers. Paris claimed that the Algiers junta had sent an ultimatum to other army corps commanders in Algeria and this had been refused. Algiers radio countered by claiming the loyalty of all troops in the Batna region, including an infantry regiment commanded by Moslem Col. Ahmed Rafa.

Sandy Valley Blasted 90-28 by Salem Track Squad

Call Continues Streak in Hurdles

Beery Remains Unbeaten in 440; Shot Put Star to Perform Here

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Sandy Valley became Salem High's fifth straight dual meet victim of the season as the Quakers rolled up a 90-28 track and field victory Friday afternoon in the mud at Reilly Stadium.

Although the track was in the worst condition it has been for a meet all season, Coach Karl Zellers' thinclads still managed to post their best marks of the year in three of the 14 events.

Don Vincent knocked almost five seconds off his previous best in the mile. He copped the event yesterday in 5:09.4.

Bill Beery, Salem's sophomore hot shot, continued his steady improvement in the 440-yard dash. He made his way through the puddles yesterday in his best time of the year—54.2.

THE MILE RELAY TEAM of Dave Edling, Randy Strader, John Floyd and Beery brought its time down to 3:50.5. This was Strader's first appearance on the mile relay team. Jim Ward had been running with the other trio.

Strader came through with his usual first place in the 880 although teammate Gary Haddon gave him a good race. Strader was clocked in 2:17.3 and Haddon in 2:17.4.

Beery was high-point man in the meet. Besides winning the 440 and running on both winning relay through with a first in the fuscus. Beery's winning throw was 123.9.

Salem took all three places in the discus. Don Davidson was second with his throw of 120-1 and Ty Enders was third with a heave of 107-10.

SANDY VALLEY failed to register a point in six of the 14 events contested. Besides the relays and the discus, the visitors failed to place in the pole vault, shot put and mile run. Salem won 11 events, Sandy Valley copped 2 and one ended in a tie.

Don Davidson of Salem and Leroy Frazier of Sandy Valley tied for first in the high jump. Each cleared 5-2 but missed on three cracks at 5-3.

Veteran Herb Call continued to sparkle in the hurdles. He won the 120-yard highs in 15.8 and the 180-yard lows in 22.9.

Call, who along with Ron Janovec is co-captain of the Salem team, is undefeated this season in both the high hurdles and the lows. His best time in the highs so far is 15.5 while his best effort in the lows has been 22.1.

RIGHT NOW, Call appears to be about the only hurdler in the district capable of giving Boardman's Bud Frazier a run for his money here in the District Meet on May 19.

Salem's only other undefeated performer in dual meets this year is Beery in the 440. Both Quaker relay teams also boast unbeaten records. Strader has been beaten once in the 880 and that was by teammate Don Vincent.

Rick Sulea has been undefeated in the pole vault until last night when he failed to place, although Salem did win all three places in this event.

Sulea, who cleared 11-11 3/4 in one meet this year, passed up his vaults yesterday until the bar was raised to 10-0. Then he proceeded to miss on three straight attempts.

FREDDY HARSHMAN, who cleared 10-0 on his third try, won the event. Dave Butcher was third with his vault of 9-0. Butcher started vaulting at 8-0 and Harshman at 9-0.

Janovec, Freddy Kaiser and Harshman gave the Quakers a clean sweep in the shot put. Janovec was first with a heave of 45-2 1/2. Kaiser threw the iron ball 43-3 and Harshman got it out 40-7. Jake Evans showed his heels to everyone in the 220. His winning time was 24.0. Caddell of Sandy Valley just nipped Janovec for second place. Janovec was clocked in 24.3.

Besides his second in the 220, Caddell picked up a first for Sandy Valley in the 100. His time was 10.7. Janovec was second at 10.7 and Evans was a close third.

Sandy Valley's other first place came in the broad jump where John Kelly bested the field with his leap of 18-8. Salem's Dave Capel was second with a jump of 18-5 3/4.

THE QUAKERS haven't lost a dual track meet in the last three years. Coach Zellers' six-year record here now has jumped to 36 wins, 1 loss and two ties.

Salem's next foe will be Youngstown Ursuline who will come here at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Ursuline doesn't figure to have the strength to match Salem's all-around power, but the Irish do have a boy who may be the best shot putter in the state. He is Joe Housteau who has thrown the shot up around 55 and 56 feet in just about every meet this year.

Janovec set the Salem High record in the shot in the Quakers' first meet of this season with a heave of 51-0 3/4. The Quaker strong man, however, hasn't done that well since.

Housteau also figures to take the discus here Tuesday. Ursuline is also strong in the 880 where Malatak may give Salem's Strader and Vincent all they can handle.

Here are the results of Friday's Salem-Sandy Valley meet:

Miss McIntire Wins Tourney

Third Pinehurst Victory In 5 Years

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Barbara McIntire has added another chapter to her Pinehurst success story.

The dimpled 26-year-old Lake Park, Fla., golfer won her second successive North and South amateur title with a 3 and 1 victory over Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan., in Friday's finals, scheduled for 18 holes.

The victory was her third here in five years. In the two losing years she was runnerup and a semifinalist.

In nine successive tournament appearances in the 59-year-old classic she has won 27 of 33 matches. Over the last five years her record is 22-2.

Although she didn't have these impressive statistics at hand, that is what Miss Bell meant at the trophy presentation ceremony when she noted:

"We'll all be back here next year in McIntire's alley."

Barbara, who doesn't plan to defend her British amateur title this year ("where would I get $1,000 for the trip?" she asked) won the first hole and was in front the rest of the way.

Temple Takes AL Batting Lead

Power Sparks Tribe Past A's

KANSAS CITY (AP)—If there is anything more dangerous on the baseball field than a fast man, it's a fast man with a quick mind.

Vic Power proved to be just that Friday. He won a cat-and-mouse game with Kansas City's shortstop, Wayne Causey, scoring from third to break a 3-3 tie to put Cleveland ahead to stay.

Power had knotted the score in the eighth inning when he tripled, scoring Bubba Phillips, who had walked.

Then Power made his coup. Woodie Held hit a grounder to Causey, who held the ball while Power stood about 10 feet off third, daring Causey to make a play for him. The instant Causey threw to first to get Held, Power broke for the plate and beat the return throw from first.

"I play with Causey," said Power later. "He wait. I wait. But I know he can't wait too long. If he do then Held beats out hit. So I wait. Causey has to throw to first and that's when I go."

The Indians got an insurance run in the ninth. Tito Francona walked and came home on Jim Piersall's triple to give Cleveland a 5-3 victory.

The Indians touched three Kansas City hurlers for 11 hits, but as often happens, the statistics don't tell the full story.

"We get 11 hits, enough to win two games, and we have to sweat it out," said Cleveland Manager Jimmy Dykes. "After one like that you just sit quietly for 45 minutes."

Johnny Temple got three hits and Francona and Power got two each.

Temple's hitting catapulted him into the league's batting lead with .444. He and Bubba Phillips, who got a single, have hit safely in all seven games.

Cleveland got its first run in the third. Jim (Mudcat) Grant, the starting pitcher, doubled to right and went to third when Temple beat out a bunt. Grant scored on Jim Piersall's pop fly which second baseman Jerry Lumpe caught going away.

In their half of the third, the As scored on a double and single. Cleveland got its second run in the fifth inning off starter Ray Herbert. Temple's sacrifice sent Grant, who had singled, to second. Francona singled through the box, scoring Grant.

Kansas City went ahead without a hit in the seventh inning, which was nearly disastrous for Cleveland. Grant gave way to Bob Allen after walking the bases full. Allen walked in two runs before dousing the fire, and the As led 3-2.

In the eighth, Power's triple and fancy footwork put Cleveland back in business.

Johnny Antonelli (0-0) was the choice to face Kansas City's Bud Daley (0-1) today.

Dodgers Dump Reds, 5-3

Four Teams Share National Loop Lead

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 5-3 Friday night to knock the Reds out of undisputed possession of first place and throw the National League into a four-way tie for the top.

St. Louis, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati each owns a 5-4 record with the Dodgers only 11 percentage points behind at six victories and five defeats. And to make it even tighter, the sixth place Chicago Cubs, after defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, were only half a game off the pace.

These were the only games played in the National League. Rain forced postponement of the game in San Francisco between the Cards and Giants, and in Pittsburgh between the Milwaukee Braves and Pirates.

Wally Moon, the hottest hitter in the National League, once again sparked the Dodgers. He hit his seventh homer of the season and added a single. Johnny Roseboro also chipped in with a homer to hang a defeat upon young Jay Hook of the Reds.

Second baseman Don Zimmer figured in all the Cubs' scoring. In the first inning he singled and scored on Billy Williams' double. In the sixth, he tallied on Ron Santo's double. In the seventh, Philadelphia outfielder Tony Curry muffed his fly ball for a three base error enabling Al Heist to score the winning run.

Don Cardwell, with the help of Don Elston in the seventh, was the winner. Robin Roberts, who deserved a better fate, lost his third of the year.

Four-And-Twenty Wins Derby Prep

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A barometer that has predicted three of the past four Kentucky Derby winners — Keeneland's Fore-runner Purse—today pointed at Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty.

The 3-year-old son of Blue Prince-Sixpence led all the way Friday and took an easy two-length victory over J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol. Clark and Radkovich's Ronnie's Ace was third, 1 1/4 lengths back.

The favorite in the seven-furlong Derby prep, Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, threatened only before the turn for home. He then faded and finished fourth in a field of six Derby eligibles.

The fore-runner is a more prestigious race than its $7,500 purse indicates because of its unique reputation:

Of its past four winners, three have gone on to win the run for the roses at Churchill Downs.

Tompson won last year's fore-runner and was the Derby favorite, but threw a shoe during the race and Venetian Way won.

Finals Scheduled Tonight

Salem Tourney Cut to 4 Teams

Two Canton teams, Lee Stockon's Collegians and Bloom Druggs, are favorites to reach the finals of the Salem Little City Basketball Tournament tonight.

Semifinals tilts this afternoon at the Memorial Building send the Collegians against Alliance Pisanello's Pizza at 2 and Bloom Druggs against Beaver Falls, Pa., Cornecki's Sports Bar at 3:15.

The losers of the two afternoon games will come back tonight to meet in the consolation game at 7:30 and the winners will battle it out at 9 for the championship trophy.

Cornecki's and Bloom Druggs both gained their way into the semifinals by turning in hard-fought victories last night.

THE QUINTET from Beaver Falls knocked off Salem Davidson Sales, 74-66, and Bloom Druggs won the most exciting game of the tourney to date when it nipped highly regarded Cleveland Blepp-Combs, 84-83.

Davidson Sales with John Mandish hitting 10 points in the first quarter jumped off to an 18-14 lead over Cornecki's. The score was knotted at 28-all at halftime. Cornecki's then steadily pulled away in the second half.

The winners used their starting five throughout the contest and all scored in double figures. High-scoring Jerry Sues of Davidson's was high point man in the fray with 22. Mandish wound up with 17.

BOWLING SCORES
Lois Longanecker compiled high series, 554-194, in the Ladies Buckeye League at Timberlakes Friday.

Olive Ramsey was runner-up with a 545-194 and Barb Dickcy carded a 530-190.

Other high scores included Ruth May, 527-197; Wanda Wilson, 523-192; Kate Kerr, 504; Erman Rapp, 503-195; Julia Ellis, 492-189; Margie Stewart, 488; Floss Juhn, 486-181; Helen Lutz, 479-186; Erla Burrier, 478-190; June Kennedy, 472; and Rosaleen Keeler, 471.

Gray Motor Sales swept team honors with a 2602-926.

A 575 by Joe Good was the best series recorded in the Men's Past-time League yesterday.

Bill Stainer posted a 554-208; Jack Stallsmith, 541-211; and Russ Stallsmith, 538.

Aldom's Diner registered a 2525 team high series and the North Georgetown Merchants posted a 575 team high single.

complete game. Blepp-Combs went down to defeat at the hands of the fired-up Bloom Druggs quintet. Fouls were the downfall of the Clevelanders. As the two teams battled right down to the wire, Cornecki's Bloom Druggs dropped in six of seven free throw attempts in the final minutes of the game to pull his team in front.

Jimmy Maddox, who figures to finish high up in the most valuable player balloting, led Bloom Druggs last night with 22 points. Most of his fielders came on long swishers from near mid-court.

Leading the way for Blepp-Combs was Gene Tormelson who popped in 28 points. Jerry Dupont, 6-11 center, tallied 20.

BLEPP-COOMBS outscored Bloom Druggs from the field, 35 goals to 29. However, Canton had a big 26-13 edge from the foul stripe.

Officials for the Bloom Drugg-Blepp-Combs fray were Torch Nedelka and Sam Pridon. John Cabas and Tom Nedelka worked the Davidson-Cornecki game.

Dark horse in the tourney is the Pisanello's Pizza team. Led by the sharp shooting and rebounding of Tom Schaefer and Dave Brubaker, this quintet from Alliance is capable of giving any team left in the tourney a rough time.

SNEAK PREVIEW, Tonight at 9:15
Tonight, only once, at 9:15 P. M., we will sneak-preview a side-splitting new comedy hit which has been drawing tremendous crowds everywhere it has been shown. It will be brought back for its regular run later on. We are doing this in order to take advantage of the word-of-mouth publicity. We are sure you'll like it and tell your friends. Come as late as 8 p. m. and see both this wonderful film and also, following that "Hell To Eternity".

Pender 2-1 Favorite To Keep Title Against Basilio Tonight

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender's slashing left and elusive style make him a 2-1 favorite to keep his limited version of the world middleweight title against Carmen Basilio tonight in a nationally televised (ABC, 10 p.m., Eastern Standard Time) bout from Boston Garden.

It's scheduled for 15 rounds, and both fighters are very cautious about predicting it will end in less than that.

Pender, 30, a former fireman from Brookline, Mass., has boxed more than 100 rounds getting ready for his third defense of a title recognized in Europe, Massachusetts and New York.

Much of Pender's sparring time has been devoted to workouts against spartrates using Basilio's boring-in style.

The fight figures to offer a vivid contrast in styles: Pender's superb, stand-up boxing, left and footwork against the damaging left hook Basilio throws out of a crowding, weaving attack.

Basilio, 34, a former middleweight and welterweight champ from upstate New York, has won two easy 10-round decisions in a comeback after a pair of brutal maulings at the hands of NBA title holder Gene Fuller.

Among the Pender advantages are age (four years), weight (about five pounds), height (almost five inches) and reach (five inches). Pender expected to weigh in close to the 160 pound limit today, and Basilio said he would be about 155.

OSU BASEBALL TEAM WINS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's baseball team aims at a double header today with Illinois after winning its Big Ten opener Friday from Purdue, 4-2. The Buckeye's Ray Apple picked up his fifth victory of the season, allowing the Boilermakers only four singles. He struck out 14 batters to run his season total in that department to 64.

Senators Knock Twins From Lead

Tigers, Yanks Extend Win Streaks to Five Straight

By The Associated Press
New York and Detroit swept into a first place tie in the American League Friday as the Yankees and Tigers each extended their winning streaks to five straight, after opening day defeats.

The Yankees defeated Baltimore 4-2, the Orioles suffering their fifth loss in six starts. The Tigers lapped Los Angeles 9-1 for the Angels' fifth straight defeat.

Washington knocked Minnesota out of the league lead, ruining the Twins' home opener with a 5-3 triumph. Kansas City also lost its home opener, 5-3, to Cleveland. Chicago nipped Boston 3-2.

Mickey Mantle walloped his fourth home run in four games and Whitey Ford pitched his second victory this week as the Yankees won their fifth straight after a losing debut in Yankee Stadium.

Mantle's homer came with a runner on base in the third inning off Steve Barber who had pitched the only Oriole victory to date. Bobby Richardson began the inning with a single, took second on an error and scored on a hit by Hector Lopez.

Ford lost his chance for a second straight shutout in the fifth when Dave Philley doubled home two runs after Earl Robinson had walked and Marv Breeding had hit a two-bagger.

The Tigers won their fifth straight and the Angels lost their fifth in a row. Tiger southpaw Don Mossi spaced eight Los Angeles hits for his second victory. Rocky Colavito's three-run homer in the first, and Norm Cash's two-run double in the third were the key blows that spelled the second defeat of the year for Jerry Casale.

Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to knock the Twins out of first place. A crowd of 24,606 looked on.

Rookie Joe McClain was the winner, although he needed ninth inning help from Dave Sisler. The Senators pounced on relief pitcher Ray Moore for their winning runs in the top of the ninth. Billy Klaus and Coot Veal singled and Klaus scored on Pete Daley's single. McClain then laid down a sacrifice bunt to score Veal.

Minnie Minoso's sacrifice fly in the eighth sent Luis Aparicio home with the winning run as Cal McLish registered his first victory for the White Sox. Nellie Fox drove in the first two Chicago runs with a two-run single in the third. Pete Runnels and Gary Geiger drove in the Boston runs.

Handy — Gil Hodges, 37, hangs on with the talent-laden Los Angeles Dodgers as a third string catcher who can also play first or third base and left field and hit.

Arnold Palmer's six-under-par 65 at Cherry Hills in Denver last year was the best closing round ever shot by a winner of the National Open.

In 14 years of Mid-American Conference football, 56 Miami University football players have been selected to the All-Conference teams.

Columbia University Teacher To Testify In Eichmann Trial

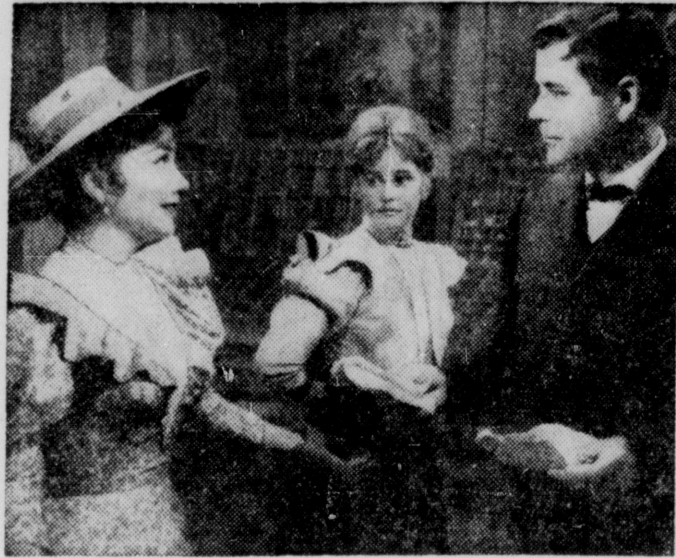

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Columbia University professor was among two key witnesses named today who will testify in the trial of Adolf Eichmann about the extent of the destruction of European Jews during World War II. Israel charges Eichmann, a department chief in the Nazi Gestapo played a major part in the slaughter of an estimated 6 million Jews including a million children. Dr. Salo Wittmayer Baron, an authority on Jewish affairs and professor of Jewish history at Columbia, in New York City, is scheduled to take the witness stand when the hearings in Jerusalem resume Monday. The state also expects to call Dr. Benno Cohn, one-time leader of the Jewish community in Berlin.

Together, they are expected to outline the status of the Jews in Europe before the war, the first steps taken against them by the Nazis, and the dimensions of the blood-letting that followed.

Eichmann consistently minimizes his role in this. "I never killed a Jew," he says. "I never killed any man. I am not anti-Semitic."

He firmly contends that, as chief of the Gestapo, "Jewish affairs section," he was concerned almost entirely with rounding up Jews in various countries and arranging for their transportation to death camps.

MARIA SCHELL (center) suspects something more than a casual acquaintance between her husband, Glenn Ford, and Anne Baxter, when the latter visits him on a business errand. The scene is from "Cimarron," which will be shown at the State Theater for five days beginning Sunday.

However, Capt. Avner Less, one of the interrogators of Eichmann, brought out in Eichmann's own words, four instances that indicate he was not a minor executive engaged in merely collecting Jews.

They were:

1. His presence at the "Wannsee Conference" in Berlin, Jan. 20, 1942. This was a high-level gathering of Gestapo chiefs who were told that Adolf Hitler had ordered mass extermination as "the final solution of the Jewish question." Eichmann says that Reinhard Heydrich, security police chief, ordered him to attend, and that he spoke not one word.

2. A "secret-urgent" letter that he signed in 1941, ordering Nazi agents to report on art treasures owned by Jews in Nazi-occupied Europe. Eichmann indicated that Herman Goering, No. 2 in the Nazi hierarchy, wanted these objects. He conceded that this letter had nothing to do with "technical details of transportation."

3. A document relating to the speed-up of deportation of Jews from Hungary, and another relating the word that Nazi authorities would not authorize the emigration of Hungarian Jews to Palestine, via Switzerland.

4. His arrest of a Protestant bishop in Berlin after "complaints" that the bishop had intervened on behalf of the Jews there. "I hated to do it," Eichmann said, "because my father was a Presbyterian elder in Linz. But I couldn't do anything."

In another recording, Eichmann said: "If somebody told me, 'Your father is a traitor,' and I was ordered to kill him, I would have done so without hesitation."
